WASHINGTON AT PENNYPACKER'S MILL

'Twas night—rain poured—when British blades,
In number twelve or more,
As they sat tippling apple-jack,
Heard someone at the door.

"Arise," he cried—'twas Scarritt spoke—
"And trudge, or will or nill,
Twelve miles to General Washington,
At Pennypacker's Mill."

Deep in their pots were they, these blades,
One sprawling on the floor,
One hiccoughing, "The King, his health,"
And all gone half sea o'er.

"Oh! what a sight,—" 'twas Scarritt spoke—
"For General Washington:
A lot of British prisoners;
Drunk, every mother's son."

And apple-jack, that tipple base,
Why did these heroes drain?
Oh! where were nobler taps that night—
Port, sherry and champagne?

"Arise," he cried—'twas Scarritt spoke,
"And trudge, or will or nill,
Twelve miles to General Washington,
At Pennypacker's Mill."

So up they got, or will or nill,
Each noble British son,
And on they went, by Scarritt led,
To General Washington.

It rained, the red coats on their backs—
Their skins did purple blue;
The powder on their heads grew paste,
Each toe it's boot wore through.

Their lace was sop, their feathers too,
Hang down like chicken's tails,
Down hang their heads, while every knave,
His luckless fate bewails.

"Who brought them in," said Washington,
"Through such an awful rain?"
Then Scarritt answered to the call
And said: "I don't complain—"

"I don't complain that through the rain,
I brought these roysters high,
But only say—though very wet—
I never was more dry."

"Nor port, nor sherry had these lords,
Lord knows the reason why;
And not a drop of apple-jack
They left for us to try."

"Scarritt, my lad," said Washington,
"It pleases me to say,
That thou hast well shut in these blades,
And dry thou shalt not stay."

"Scarritt, my lad, thou art a trump,
The ace of all the pack;
Come into Pennypacker's Mill—
And share MY apple-jack."

Note: the old ballad spelling is Pennybacker and Skerrett—(The idem sonems principle).

PREFACE

I FIRST heard the name Scarritt in 1923, when Mary Scarritt Wolfe was a classmate of mine at Denison University, Granville, Ohio. Later I became acquainted with her sister, now Mrs. Pearson. Being an enthusiastic genealogist, and having worked on the "History of the Pearson Family" for almost ten years, I began shortly before my marriage to see what could be developed in the way of a history of "The Scarritt Clan in America".

At that time I was told that the Scarritts were few and far between, but with the cooperation of Attorney William C. Scarritt, of Kansas City, Mrs. Winthrop E. Scarritt, of Hutton Park, West Orange, New Jersey, Nathan Scarritt, Enid, Oklahoma, Mrs. Theodore M. Scarritt, of Big Bayou, Pensacola, Florida, Ralph Scarritt, River Forest, Illinois, James H. Scarritt, Bristol, Connecticut, William R. Scarritt, Boston attorney, Mrs. L. Gene Wolfe, Granville, Ohio, Miss Rose Mather, Evanston, Illinois, and other members of the family, I have been able to gather facts which are presented here. While I realize with regret that there will be errors and omissions, it contains much that is true and interesting to those concerned, and has been made possible by the great interest and splendid cooperation of all who were contacted. Special recognition is due the Illinois State Historical Library and the Newberry Library of Chicago, for material which possibly could not have been secured elsewhere.

I wish it were possible to list all who have given their aid, for without their assistance this publication could not have materialized. So to those whose contributions have facilitated the achievement of this project, this book is dedicated.

May the name Scarritt continue to be found among the outstanding names in the yet unwritten record of these United States as it is now in that history already recorded.

Ralph E. Pearson.

Explanation of the Clan and Code

In arranging this genealogical record, I have followed a plan which I believe is simple, yet complete and all-inclusive. As explained below, one can easily trace his own branch or any other and also determine his relationship to other branches of the family if he so desires.

The first known man is taken as the starting point, and in this particular history, is identified by the letter "S". All members of the family listed in this history of course descend from the Scarritt pioneer and can trace their own branch of the family back to the Scot who first settled in the New World some time around the middle of the 18th century.

Each member of the first family has been given a number as were the members of each family for that matter. Thus the oldest child is S.1. and his or her oldest child in turn is S.1.1. To trace the lineage of any given member of the family one must work backwards. For instance, S.1.2.2.5. in front of some one's name means that he is the fifth child of S.1.2.2., who in turn is the second child of S.1.2., who in turn happens to be the second child of S.1., who is the oldest child of the pioneer member of the family who was labeled "S".

By this plan each branch of the family is in a given section, and the individuals are placed as by right of primogeniture.

THE SCARRITT CLAN IN AMERICA

Scarritts Were Early Settlers

The period from 1690 to 1760, in America, was one of very remarkable growth in wealth and population. At the beginning of this period, the total population of the colonies, including Georgia, was about 250,000; at the end of the period 1,600,000.

A large element of the 18th Century immigration was made up of the so-called Scotch-Irish, who between 1730-50, it is said, came to America at the rate of 12,000 annually. These people were in the van of migration across the mountains into Kentucky and Tennessee. It has been remarked that these people, descendants of Saxon English who had lived for centuries in the Scottish lowlands, were the first of the American colonists to turn their faces away from the Old World, thus marking the beginning of America.

"So far as I have knowledge or information," wrote William C. Scarritt, several years ago, "the name Scarritt is a very old one, running back for several centuries in the northern part of Scotland. Family tradition is that before the Revolution several brothers settled in Connecticut, where members of the family still live. Certainly they were there in the early years of the colonies as they are mentioned frequently in the histories of that time.

From Mary Skerrett of Englewood, Colorado (whose mother was a Scarritt) we have a crest and the following, "The ancient and well known family of Scarritt has been established for many centuries in Galway and has many branches in the county. The name is primarily derived from that of the old knight at arms, Roger de Huscared, who obtained certain lands in Connacht from Richard de Surgo about 1242.

"In modern days the principal seat of the Scarritts have been those of Ballinduff, Nutgrove, Caracrow, Drumgriffin, all in Galway and Finvarra and Funcheon in County Clare." This was originally in the World and Industrial Liberator in August, 1919.

Members of the Scarritt family played an important part in the American Revolution and many records bear testimony to that fact. Correspondence with the War Department and the Department of Pensions, as well as reports of the National Society of the D. A. R. and Pierce's Register, give data on Jeremiah Scarritt, Nathan his father, James his brother, and others.

The census of 1790 shows Nathan, James, and Jonathan in Southington, Hartford County, James in Wallingford, and Thomas in New London County, Connecticut. There were twenty-four included in their families at that time, besides those named. The 1790 report also shows John Scarritt, with six in his family, in Pennsylvania. But many years before that Richard and Hannah Scarrittt had purchased a tract of land in Branford, Connecticut, and raised a considerable family. These men, or at least some of them, were descendants of this Richard who first bought land in Connecticut in 1719.

A study of the city directories, published in Chicago, as early as 1864 shows that members of the family had continued to live there following the migration of Isaac Scarritt, a minister, to Chicago, or rather Illinois, in 1818. Michael was a plumber there in 1872 and Miss Emma Scarritt taught in the kindergarten at 481 LaSalle Street in 1878. Harry Mason Scarritt moved to Chicago from Alton about 1886 and shortly before that Mrs. Ena Scarritt, whose husband was accidentally killed in Columbus, Ohio, had brought her two small boys to the "Windy City". Nathan Scarritt, for whom "Scarritt College" at Nashville, Tenn., was named, went to Fayette, Missouri in 1845 becoming a prominent citizen of Kansas City, Missouri, where his descendants now live. The more detailed records of other members of the family are given under their own names. Many Scarritts were numbered among the pioneer preachers, inventors, and early farmers and all contributed something to the good of the community in which they lived. Today Scarritts are to be found in many parts of the country, even in China (S.4.1.2.2.6.7.2. and S.4.3.2.1.2.2.) and Africa (S.4.1.2.2.6.4.). From Florida to Minnesota, from Hawaii (2418 miles west of San Francisco) to Bermuda (880 miles east of Charleston, S. C.), they are continuing to occupy a place of worth in almost every state.

The Scarritt Family in Connecticut

S. Richard Scarritt and Hannah ..... Scarritt

Richard Scarritt purchased ten acres, more or less, from Adam and Mary Rayner, by deed dated March 30, in ye reign of our Sovereign Lord George of Great Britain (1718 or 1719), received for record February 27 (1719 or 1720). This is recorded in Volume 4, pages 216-7 of the Branford land records, according to Charles A. Hoadley, town clerk of Branford, whose maternal ancestor was a Scarritt. These ten acres, and he made additional purchases from time to time, were located in Branford, but are now a part of North Branford, according to E. M. Rose, of East Haven, Conn., who has a copy of the deed, dated 1738, transferring some of Richard's land to a Mr. Barker.

According to tradition, repeated by many members of the family, three of Richard's sons moved to Wolcott in 1770. James, Lester, and Jeremiah lived in Wolcott, after a period in Meriden (1768-9 according to history) where they bought and sold farms.

1. Anne Scarritt 1726- married Nathaniel Hoadley 1721-1797
2. Lester Scarritt (moved to New York in 1795)
3. Ransom Scarritt (supposed to have moved to Boston)
4. Jeremiah Scarritt 1734-1825 married Mary Baker 1735-1827
5. James Scarritt 1738- married Love Hall, then Sarah Orcutt

S.1. Anne Scarritt 1726- and Nathaniel Hoadley 1721-1797

Anne Scarritt, oldest child of Richard, was born in Branford, where she married in 1745. Charles Hoadley, Branford town clerk (1933) furnished the authenticated record of the purchases made by Richard.

According to the Hoadley Genealogy by Trowbridge (1894) Anne, daughter of Richard and Hannah Scarritt of Branford, married Nathaniel Hoadley.

1. Andrew Hoadley 1747-1802 married Sarah Lewis of Waterbury
2. Anna Hoadley 1749 (not married)
3. Hannah Hoadley 1751- married John Beach
   married Jesse Johnson
4. Nathaniel Hoadley 1755- married Eunice Tyler
5. Silas Hoadley 1757- married Rachel Hoadley
6. Mercy Hoadley 1760 (died young)
7. Asa Hoadley 1762- married Esther Hoadley
8. Mary Hoadley 1764- married Lyman Johnson

S.2. No further record

S.3. No further record

S.4. Jeremiah Scarritt 1734-1825 and Mary Baker Scarritt 1735-1827

Orcutt's history of Wolcott (New Haven Co.) says that Jeremiah was an important man in the community from 1790 to 1815, being engaged to a considerable extent in the buying and selling of farms. His wife, Mary, united with the Congregational church in 1777, making certain they came to Wolcott at least that early. The children are named below as they are listed in the old English bible which in 1933 was in the possession of Mrs. Rowe, wife of the grandson of James Scarritt (S.4.3.2.). Jeremiah was a resident of Wolcott as late as 1819, when other members of the family were pioneering in Illinois and western states.

1. Nathan Scarritt 1753-1828 married Abagail Atkins 1759-1840
2. James Scarritt 1760-1856 married Silvia Plumb 1778-
3. Jeremiah Scarritt 1762- married Sarah Plumb
4. Lucretia Scarritt 1764- married Solomon Plumb
5. Isaac Scarritt 1765- (preacher moved to New Hampshire)
6. David Scarritt 1766- married Mary Minor
7. Ransom Scarritt 1781-1808

Scarritts to New Hampshire

S.4.1. Nathan Scarritt 1753-1828 and Abagail Atkins Scarritt 1759-1840

Nathan Scarritt, son of Jeremiah, was born in Connecticut. While residing in Waterbury, according to the U. S. Veterans' Administration Department, he enlisted in the spring of 1778 for three years. He served as a private in Captain Daniel Pendleton's company, and Col. J. Baldwin's continental regiment, until Jeremiah, his father, took over his duties (substitutes were common in U. S. military forces even as late as the Civil War). After Nathan's death, his son Nathan brought the mother, Abagail Atkins, to his home in Illinois in 1837. She became paralyzed and died in 1840. Nathan was allowed a pension on his application, executed in Lyman, Grafton County, New Hampshire, in 1819.

While still living in Connecticut, he was appointed to the school committee for the Parish in 1789-91-94-95. He also appears in the first official U. S. Census (1790), having at that time two sons and two daughters. The boys were under 16. In 1801 he migrated to New Hampshire. The Scarritt homestead in New Hampshire, located near North Monroe, was visited by Sanford G. Scarritt in 1904. He states that it was then owned by a Mr. Lang and was approached by what was commonly known as Scarritt's Lane. Nathan Scarritt (1821-1890), a grandson, visited the homestead on his wedding trip in 1850. The account is given under Nathan's record.

Nathan Scarritt, ancestor of most of the Scarritts recorded here, was, according to the diary of his son, the Rev. Josiah Atkins Scarritt, aged and infirm in 1815. Excerpts from his will are given here:

"First, I do give and bequeath to my oldest daughter, Lucy Moore, $300 to be paid her in money . . . . within one year after my decease.

"Secondly . . . . to my oldest son, Isaac, $100 . . . . within one year if called for . . . . the same to the second son, Nathan, Jr., and to the third son, Josiah Atkins, the same. I do give and bequeath and devise to my youngest daughter, Lavinia, one-half of all the rest . . . to my beloved wife, Abagail, the sole use, occupation and enjoyment of all of my estate. . . ."

His son-in-law, Richard R. Moore, was appointed sole executor, according to the photostatic copy owned by Nathan Scarritt, attorney of Enid, Oklahoma. Nathan also has photostatic copies of many other legal entries made in Grafton County for the Scarritts and legally certified.

1. Lucy Scarritt 1781-1842 married Richard R. Moore
2. Rev. Isaac Scarritt 1783-1861 married Candace Mason
3. Nathan Scarritt 1788-1847 married Latty Allds 1793-1875
4. Rev. Josiah Atkins Scarritt 1790- Cynthia Dow 1804-43 Phebe Burley
5. Lovina Electa Scarritt 1801-1863. (Lovina carried on a correspondence with a Cousin Richard during her lifetime, according to Rev. Jotham Scarritt, but we have no data on Richard).
6. Jeremiah Scarritt 1793-1811
7. Abagail Scarritt married Edward Mason
8. William Scarritt

S.4.1.1. Lucy Scarritt 1781-1842 and Richard Rogers Moore 1784-1865

Richard was the son of Ephraim, and grandson of Deacon James Moore, a Scotchman who settled in Suncook, New Hampshire. Richard married Lucy Scarritt in Lyman, New Hampshire. Richard and Lucy lived in Lyman which later became North Monroe. He built the first and probably the only brick house to date (1928) in the town. Three generations were born in this house. Lucy died in Chicago. The data about Richard and his descendants was secured from the Moore genealogy compiled by Mrs. Anna Moore Dodge. Data on Richard's ancestors was secured from the History of Pembroke, N. H., Vol. 2, pages 230-231.

1. Harry Moore 1809-1883 married Marion Gibson 1809-1869
2. Lucy Moore 1812-1842 married Seth M. Paddleford 1806-1840
3. Nancy Moore 1813-1814
4. Richard Moore 1815-1888 married Martha W. Hunt 1822-1896
5. Sophonia Moore 1818-1889 married John A. Paddleford 1823-1857
6. Nathan Scarritt Moore 1820-1899 married Eliza Louisanna Hunt 1828-1854 married Sarah ..... -1860
   married Annette Cross 1842-1871
   married Sarah Patch 1822-1893
7. William N. Moore 1824-1881 married Annie E. Bowker -1912

S.4.1.1.1. Harry Moore 1809-1883 and Marion Gibson 1809-1869

1. Mary Ellen Moore 1849-1896 married Henry Gilchrist

S.4.1.1.1.1. Mary Ellen Moore 1849-1896 and Henry Gilchrist

2. Laforest Adelbert Moore 1847-1848
3. Richard Manson Moore 1850-1926 married Flora Flanders 1856-1915
4. Frank Pierce Moore 1852-1871
5. Ella Gertrude Moore 1854-1854
6. Seth Paddleford Moore 1855-1881 married Elizabeth Wilson
7. Church Meggs Moore 1862-1865
8. Johanna Buffum Moore 1866- married Frank Almon Dodge
9. Phillip Sheridan Moore 1869- married Mabel Davis

S.4.1.1.4.3. Richard Manson Moore 1850-1926 and Flora Flanders 1856-1915

Richard M. Moore, according to the Wilton (N. H.) Journal, passed away at the home of his daughter, Mrs. May Moore Hart, at Wolfboro, New Hampshire. He was born at Monroe, New Hampshire, and for 44 years his home was in Wilton.

When still a boy he developed a strong interest in railroad work and in 1873 he secured his first railroad job and continued in the work for 50 years. He was employed by the Boston and Maine as a freight handler and later as yard master, and in 1882 came to Wilton as station agent, which position he filled until his retirement.

Mr. Moore was well known as a newspaper correspondent, having for more than 35 years served as Wilton correspondent for the Boston Globe. He served as town treasurer for 25 years, and was for a long time judge of the police court and member of the school board for several terms. His daughter, who was adopted, was called May.

1. Mary Wilbur Moore 1882- married Harold H. Hart 1882-

S.4.1.1.4.3.1. Mary W. Moore 1882- and Harold H. Hart 1882-

Mr. Hart was from Racine, Wisconsin. They live in Wolfboro, New Hampshire.

1. Lucius Sands Hart 1909-
2. Stella Louise Hart 1912-
3. Richard Manson Hart 1917-

S.4.1.1.4.6. Seth P. Moore 1855-1881 and Elizabeth Wilson

1. Richard Seth Moore 1881-1935 married Bertha Drolett
   married Marguerite Crowell

S.4.1.1.4.6.1. Richard Seth Moore 1881-1935 and Bertha Drolett

Bertha Moore, was drowned in Sunset Lake, Braintree, Mass., while canoeing.

1. Richard Francis Moore 1905- married Ruth Blackmore Peck
   Richard Seth Moore 1881-1935 and Marguerite Crowell 1887-

Mrs. Moore lives at 303 Norwood Avenue, Providence, Rhode Island.

2. Alexander Wilson Moore 1912-
3. Frederick Seth Moore 1918-

S.4.1.1.4.8. Anna B. Moore 1866- and Frank A. Dodge 1857-1914

Mrs. Moore, compiler of the Moore genealogy, is called Anna. She was married at Wilton, N. H., at the home of her brother. Her husband died in Keene, N. H.

1. Martha Leita Dodge 1890- married Ralph E. Whitney 1889-
2. Anna Christine Dodge 1893- married Robert Stuart Brown

S.4.1.1.4.8.1. Martha L. Dodge 1890- and Ralph Whitney 1889-

The Whitneys live at 16 Fountain Street, West Newton, Massachusetts.

The Browns live at 6 Princeton Place, Upper Montclair, N. J.

1. Carolyn Dodge Brown 1925-
2. Roger Stuart Brown, Jr., 1927-
3. Richard Dawes Brown 1930-

S.4.1.1.4.8.2.3. Richard Dawes Brown, born in Chicago, was given the name "Dawes" because his father is a descendant of William Dawes of Concord, Mass., who gained fame in connection with the ride of Paul Revere.

S.4.1.1.4.9. Phillip Sheridan Moore 1869- and Mabel Davis

The Moores live at 30 Abbott Street, Gunfield, Mass. Their daughter in Ludlow, Vt.

1. Dorothy Davis Moore 1907- married Osmer C. Fitts 1905-
2. Phillip S. Moore, Jr., 1910-1931

S.4.1.1.4.9.2. Philip S. Moore, Jr. 1910-1931

Philip won some distinction as an athlete. Early in life he acquired some skill as a catcher and he was eagerly sought by local ball teams. He entered Wesleyan College, Middlebury, Connecticut, in 1930. He was captain and catcher on the baseball team, played center on the football team, and was president of his class. During the summer while employed at a hydro-electric plant (1931) he was fatally burned during an explosion. His college work was such that his fraternity, Alpha Delta Phi, erected a tablet in his memory in their fraternity house.

S.4.1.1.5. Sophronia Moore 1818-1889 and John A. Paddleford 1823-1857

Mr. Paddleford died in Chicago. His wife last lived in Barnet, Vermont.

S.4.1.1.6. Nathan Scarritt Moore 1820-1889 and Eliza L. Hunt 1828-1854

Eliza L. Hunt was a sister of Martha W. Hunt Moore. Sarah Patch, fourth wife of Nathan, was a widow and had one son, William.

1. Ann Elizabeth Moore 1852-1868

Nathan S. Moore 1820-1889 and Annette Cross 1842-1871

2. Ella J. Moore 1867-1898 married Carl Hunt 1857-

S.4.1.1.6.2. Ella J. Moore 1867-1898 and Carl Hunt 1857-

1. Kathryn Hunt
2. Balfour Hunt

S.4.1.1.7. William Nelson Moore 1824-1881 and Annie E. Bowker -1912

William Nelson Moore died very suddenly, in Chicago, of pneumonia.

1. Horatio Nelson Moore 1869-1898

S.4.1.1.7.1. Horatio Nelson Moore, a promising young lawyer, was instantly killed in Chicago. He was struck by a canoe which fell from its position over a sporting goods store, where it was hung for advertising purposes.

Scarritts in Illinois

S.4.1.2. Rev. Isaac Scarritt 1783-1861 and Candace Mason -1819

From the "Recollections of the Rev. Jotham Scarritt" in the Centennial History of Madison County, Illinois, we learn:

"In the year 1818, the Rev. Isaac Scarritt, with his family of three children, came from the state of New Hampshire to Illinois and being a Methodist minister, took work in the conference as pastor of circuit societies thinly scattered but growing."

"The earliest entry of land (in Godfrey Township)", according to information contained on page 512 of the history of Madison county, published in 1882, "was made . . . . . by Isaac Scarritt, one hundred and seven and sixty-two one hundredths acres, section four, January 17, 1821."

"A few years later, Isaac was appointed to a mission among the Indians and for a time labored with them on and near the site of Chicago. He was superintendent of the Fox River mission (Methodist) in 1828. In midsummer of that year, Isaac wrote (from history of Chicago): 'Planned trip to Chicago, distant some 70 or 80 miles. The next evening we entered Chicago, which in addition to the buildings constituting Fort Dearborn, contained the old Kinzie home, a new house of Col. Hamilton's, with perhaps one or two others in that quarter. And those of J. Kinzie and J. Miller up at the point. I took residence at Millers." It is also recorded in the History of Chicago, that on June 10, 1829, he married a couple at a frontier cabin on the Illinois river.

Isaac later moved to Joliet where he died. His descendants carried on, however, for Dr. Jotham writes, "Two of his daughters married Methodist ministers and gave their lives to the work. One of them raised three sons who heard and heeded the call . . . . 'Go ye' . . . . and spent their lives in active service. One of these raised a son who also entered the ministry early, prepared for missionary work, and is now (1912) an efficient superintendent of a large mission district in Africa." Thus it is shown that three generations of Madison county early settlers contributed largely to the promotion of Christian civilization in enlightened Illinois and dark Africa (See S.4.1.2.2.6.4.).

S.4.1.2.1. Abagail Scarritt 1813- and Rev. Isaac House 1806-1847

Abagail was bound to Paris Mason and later taught the first school in Godfrey Township in Illinois. Isaac House was a tailor in Edwardsville, Illinois. After his conversion he became a Methodist minister in Illinois Conference.

Later Abagail married a Mr. Chamberlain. By the latter she had a daughter, Mary Elizabeth, who was a poet and wrote under the pen name of "Carrie Carlton". She published a book of poems under the title "Wayside Flowers", which was dedicated to Susan Candace Springer—"To Darling Cousin Sue." This book contains the poem "The Conductor's Story", a thrilling incident of primitive days of railroading; also the exquisite poem "Little Floy!". (Little Floy was the second child of James and Susan Candace Springer Davidson. She died as the result of an accident before she was two years old. Her name was Florence Candace). Abagail's second child, Floretta, died in infancy.

S.4.1.2.2. Martha B. Scarritt 1815-1884 and Rev. Elihu Springer 1811-1850

In a letter to Mrs. William H. Allen, in Grafton, in 1887, Dr. Jotham Scarritt said, "Martha was much better looking than her old sister Abagail." Martha, after her mother's death, was bound to her uncle Hale Mason until she was 18. She attended the young ladies' seminary at Monticello.

Rev. Elihu Springer was an M. E. minister, Bond County, Illinois, and Milwaukee, Wisconsin. He was presiding elder Milwaukee district at the time of his death. Martha Scarritt Springer was living in Baraboo, Wisconsin, at the time of her son John M. Springer's death there.

Martha, after Elihu died, married a man by the name of Worth. However, she went to Hazel, South Dakota, with Henry Martyn Springer and took up a homestead four miles south of Hazel. She died about 1884 and a monument marks her grave in Dixon Cemetery.

S.4.1.2.2.2. Susannah Springer 1835-1919 and James M. Davidson 1828-1894

According to a clipping, of a column about "A Pair of Red Mittens" the following was true to Susannah Davidson. "Some of her forbears were German noblemen and one of them represented the old "Holy Roman Empire of the German nation" in the embassy at Stockholm. Other of her ancestors came in the Mayflower and did something after they arrived. Her grandfather, the Rev. Isaac Scarritt, came from New England to the wilderness of the West in 1818, as a minister of the Methodist church.

This pioneer lady's father was also a Methodist minister and attended the conference of that church in Chicago in his early work in the wilderness of Wisconsin and Illinois. When eight years of age she accompanied her father on one of his regular journeys to Chicago. She remembered picking up shells from the shores of Lake Michigan close to where the auditorium now stands. The settlement then contained about 3,000 people.

Early in her young womanhood she married a pioneer journalist—a country editor. She followed his fortune prior to and through the Civil War, rearing a family of twelve children. Two of these became ministers and three journalists. James M. was a nephew of his father-in-law.

Susan Candace Springer Davidson was a remarkable woman, deeply spiritual, keenly intelligent, uncritical, tender-hearted, a perfect wife and mother. She was a wide reader and shared her spiritual and mental treasures with her family. Daily family prayers and daily reading aloud were part of the home life. Her in-laws said of her: "Mother was the most wonderful woman in the world. I have never known anyone like her."

James Monroe Davidson started his newspaper career as a boy of 10. At 17 he was editing and publishing small papers, at 20 had charge of a paper at Canton, Illinois. In 1855 he founded the "Fulton Democrat" at Lewiston, Illinois, selling it to his brother, W. T. Davidson two years later. The "Democrat" has remained in the family and is now published by W. T. D.'s son Gilman. J. M. D. published the "Squatter Sovereign" at Havana, Illinois, then sold it in 1861 and in 1863 bought the "Carthage Republican" at Carthage, Illinois. It is still owned and published by his children.

Jeremiah, born in New Hampshire, was raised in Edwardsville, Illinois, by his aunt. He secured an appointment to West Point when only 17, entering July 1, 1834. He graduated in 1838, fifth in his class (writer has transcript of his record from West Point) and was appointed a second lieutenant in the 6th U. S. Infantry, and assigned to the Engineers Corps.

His first year out of the Academy, he served as assistant engineer on the improvement work at St. Louis harbor and was chief engineer in the war against the Seminoles in 1838-39. As assistant professor of Engineering at the Military Academy, he taught two years until 1841. While there he taught both the Generals French and Grant, famous in U. S. History, mathematics, a subject in which, as a cadet, he led his class.

In 1841 he was assigned as assistant engineer in building the fortifications at Pensacola harbor, Florida. He remained there until 1845 when he was transferred to Texas and participated in the military occupation there in 1846-7, taking part in the battle of Palo Alto, May 8, 1846; battle of Pesacade-la-palma, May 9, and in the battle of Monterey Sept. 21-23. He also served as superintending engineer of repairs at Fort Morgan. While in Fort Barrancas in Pensacola, he married Irene Moreno. It was said that his suggestion, adopted by the military staff, was responsible for the complete victory of the U. S. troops at Monterey. He was presented with a gold sword for gallantry and bravery in the three days fighting there, by the state of Illinois. He was also made a captain for his meritorious conduct at Monterey.

At Mobile Bay, Alabama, in 1847-53 he made a survey of several rivers. He was then assigned to superintend the building of Fort Taylor. He died at Key West, Florida, in 1854, during a yellow fever epidemic, while in command of Fort Taylor. He left minor children and a wife who drew a pension, until her death in 1906. A street in Springfield, Illinois, is named in his honor.

From "A Life of Gen. Zachary Taylor", derived from public documents and private correspondence, by J. Reese Fry: "I must express my particular obligations to Brevet Major Mansfield, and Lieutenant Scarritt, Engineers Corps. They both rendered most important service in surveying the enemy position, conducting troops in attack, and strengthening the works captured from the enemy." From report of operations before Monterey, made by Gen. Taylor to the Adjutant General of the Army, from "The Life of Major General Zachary Taylor," by H. Montgomery, "To the officers of his (Gen. Taylor) personal staff and of the engineers, topographical engineers, and ordinance, associated with him, he expressed himself under obligation for the valuable and efficient assistance derived from them during the operations. . . . . He also expressed his particular obligations to Brevet Major Mansfield and Lieutenant Scarritt. They both rendered most important service."

Scarritts in Missouri

S.4.1.3. Nathan Scarritt 1788-1849 and Latty Allds 1793-1875

Nathan Scarritt was born April 15, 1788, in Connecticut, and went with his parents to Lyman, New Hampshire, at the age of 13. According to the official history of Madison County, Illinois, his father was of Scotch descent. In 1812 he married Latty Allds, a native of New Hampshire, of Irish extraction. They lived in New Hampshire until 1820, where six of their children were born.

Nathan and his family trekked to Illinois by canal and covered wagon, taking about ten weeks for the trip, following his brother Isaac. They settled on a farm in Godfrey Township, near Alton, which for a long time was called Scarritt's prairie. Nathan's son, Nathan, the seventh child, and sixth son, was born after the family arrived at their new home.

Godfrey Township was named for Captain Benjamin Godfrey. This gentleman, in company with Mr. Gilman, came to the home of Nathan Scarritt in 1834 in search of a site for Monticello Institute. The school was later located on the Scarritt farm, near Edwardsville, Illinois. Nathan broke the first ground for cultivation in Godfrey township. He was a man of marked piety and left a definite mark on the community, although he took no part in public affairs. He left Lyman because of the barrenness of his farm, deciding to take his chances in the more fertile west.

The first school in Godfrey township was held in his home, and the first church meetings were also held there. Upon his arrival in Illinois he built a log cabin, his wife helping to raise it, and later the first brick house in the township. Incidentally he made his own bricks.

According to Madison County history, he had twelve children, including ten sons, but only four of the first six lived to make the trip west.

"A counterpart of the sketch of Rev. Isaac Scarritt (from the Centennial History of Madison County), is found in the life and family of his younger brother, Nathan Scarritt, who came from the same old home in New Hampshire, two years later—1820—with family of parents and four children in two wagons, making the journey to Edwardsville, in ten weeks, where they were congratulated on their safe and "speedy" journey.

"Nathan was a Methodist, but not a minister. However, he did his part in furnishing a congregation and sustaining the ministry by supplying material for it and for its support. Since his household eventually consisted of ten sons and two daughters, it was wise and well that he sought to make a permanent farm home. With this purpose in view and government land galore at uniform price, he made his purchase four miles north of Alton, and became the first permanent settler of that part of the country. The new settlement was known for a long time as Scarritt's Prairie. There is a current tradition that the eighth son, Jotham, was the first white child born in that part of the country, north of Alton (now known as Godfrey); and in that home two other sons were born later.

"Immediately upon his decision where he would locate his lifetime home, Nathan Scarritt became active and discreetly earnest in making acquaintance with representatives of prospective emigrants, many of whom were passing to and fro from the government land office in Edwardsville and by kindness and with judicious influence, induced the desirable classes to become neighbors with him and with each other, so that in a few years there was planted a valuable citizenship, prosperous and progressive in civic, social and moral character. This policy became quite common and effective in Madison and adjacent counties, and for many years there was no section of the state more influential in promoting exalted ideals in all lines of excellence.

"The fruitage from this wise planting of noble aspirations soon appeared in substantial form (monumental), by the establishment of three chartered institutions of learning—Shurtleff, McKendree and Monticello—within twenty-five miles of Edwardsville, built and promoted respectively by three denominations of christians; and for three quarters of a century have sent annual classes of certified experts, to enter the various professions and build other similar institutions in the rapidly growing west.

"In 1849 Nathan closed his quiet, but very busy life, falling asleep in the pioneer home, where he had reared and carefully trained his family for self-reliant activities, for noble achievements in the world's work. Three of his sons, Russell, Isaac and Winthrop, who lived to reach maturity, were business men, and like their father were imbued with a christian and patriotic spirit which identified them actively with civic and religious agencies, which "make good" for righteousness and highest type of civilization. The two other sons who lived to maturity were early enlisted, under vows, for entire devotion to work of the ministry. The elder one of this couple—Nathan junior —spent his whole life in strenuous official work, with church agencies, in establishing and maintaining churches, missions, mission schools, and a 'bible training school' for training missionaries. The school bears his name as the founder. His base of operations was Kansas City; his 'field', for nearly fifty years, was in the states of Kansas and Missouri.

"The Rev. Nathan Scarritt, Jr., was a preacher and teacher all his life, but became a millionaire through judicious real estate investments in Kansas City and elsewhere. His large family now occupies contigious blocks in the finest residential section of Kansas City.

"Ezra Gilman, one of the early residents of the township, was raised in the family of Nathan Scarritt.

"West of Scarritt's prairie, in the northern part of the township, one of the earliest settlers was George Debaun. . . . He emigrated to Illinois, reaching the vicinity of Collinsville, on the 20th of October, 1816. After a residence of two or three years in that part of the country, he moved to the neighborhood of Upper Alton, where he lived on a small farm until 1829, when he entered land in section nine and moved to Godfrey township. William Scarritt had, previous to this, built a log cabin on a piece of land adjoining, and into this Mr. Debaun moved with his family, while he was building a double log cabin on his land. . . . Nathan Scarritt had settled near the present town of Godfrey. . . . Mr. Debaun had eight children. The year of his arrival, he employed Miss Abagail Scarritt, niece of Nathan, to teach them, as there were no schools in the neighborhood. The families living nearest took advantage of this and attended Miss Scarritt's school, two of Nathan's children. . . . The next year, 1830, it was removed to the old log cabin built by William Scarritt, a quarter of a mile distant.

Early Schools and Churches

"Mention has already been made that the first school in the township was taught in the barn of Nathan Scarritt, whose daughter Laura was teacher. Sixteen children attended the school. A school was also taught in 1829-30-31 at the residence of George Debaun. Abagail Scarritt and Elizabeth Peters were the teachers. About the year 1832 or 1833 a school was established at the Bethany church and for some years was the only school in the township. . . . Subsequent teachers were Mrs. Russell Scarritt, Mary Jane Scarritt, the youngest daughter of Nathan. The first Sunday school was taught in the barn of Nathan Scarritt in 1829.

"Early religious services were held in the house of Nathan Scarritt, and here the first sermon was preached by the Rev. John Hogan, a Methodist minister.

"A Methodist class was organized at the time of the first settlement, but no regular church organization existed until 1842. On the 26th of December of that year the Bethany church was organized. Among the original members were Hail Mason, Nathan Scarritt . . . . The Randles, Scarritts and others were warm supporters of the Methodist church, and it was usual for them on Wednesday nights to get a big wagon and drive around the neighborhood, collecting a goodly number to go to Upper Alton and attend the weekly class. p. 513.

S.4.1.3.1.2. Rev. William R. Scarritt 1847-1931 and Elizabeth Mariner

Dr. Scarritt was born in Alton, Illinois, moving later to St. Louis. He entered Yale in 1864 and after two years transferred to Amherst where he graduated in 1869. He also graduated from Union Theological Seminary in New York. Although he did not seek worldly distinction, he was recognized early in his career as an unusual preacher and was told by one of his bishops that he was considered the banner preacher of the state of Massachusetts. His home missionary work extending over many years brought him the devotion and love of hundreds of people who came under his influence. His writings consisted of several strong pamphlets—"The Test of Orthodoxy for New Creed Relations", and an answer to Haeckle's "Riddle of the Universe". His last service was in the old Trinity Church in Boston. He became nearly blind with double cataracts, and died of a stroke in Salem, Massachusetts.

In the early part of the World War, when the United States was striving to be neutral, Dr. Scarritt preached a sermon on Thanksgiving Day, 1916, calling on the United States to abandon neutrality and join the Allies against Germany. The sermon attracted widespread attention and was accredited with marking the turning point in American sentiment.

Scarritts in Colorado

S.4.1.3.4. Laura Scarritt 1814- and John Israel Ellet 1811-1896

Laura, who also taught in the early school in Godfrey Township, was about the age and style of her cousins, Abagail and Martha. She married John Israel Ellett, a member of a family of famous engineers and soldiers in 1832. In fact he was the son of Charles Ellet, a descendant, 29 generations removed, of Alfred the Great, King of England, and listed in "American of Royal Descendant" by Browning. John Ellet had 14 children, several of whom lived to grow up. Laura died before her daughter, Mary Letitia, who died of cholera just as she was finishing school. Mary is not listed below.

John Israel Ellet was born in Tullytown, Pa. When he was a young man he went West and after farming a few years near Alton, Illinois, he moved to St. Louis, where he married Laura Scarritt, daughter of Nathan. He was in the furniture business there with Laura's brother, Russell Scarritt (Scarritt & Ellet).

There is a book, "History of the Ram Fleet and the Mississippi Marine Brigade," the story of the Ellets and their men, which was published in St. Louis in 1907.

The Book on the Ram fleet is based on the work of five members of the Ellet family. Two sons of Charles and Mary Israel Ellet, Charles Ellet, Jr., the civil engineer who devised the battering rams which cleared the Mississippi of confederate boats during the Civil War, and who commanded the fleet, Alfred W. Ellet who took command when his brother Charles was wounded, and Col. John A. Ellet, son of John Israel Ellet, Edward C. Ellet, son of Gen. Alfred W. Ellet, and Charles Rivers Ellet, son of Charles, Jr. Lieut. Richard Ellet, son of John, also served.

In 1938 the United States Navy Department dedicated a new destroyer of modern pattern, the DD-398, at Kearney, N. J., to Charles Ellet and named it the Ellet, in belated recognition of the timely ingenuity and heroic achievements of the Ellet family in the Civil War. The destroyer was christened by Miss Elvira Daniel Cabell, of Chicago, a granddaughter of the designer of the "Rams". The honor was first offered to Mrs. Henrietta Ellet Frazier of El Dorado, Kansas, daughter of Edward C. Ellet, but she graciously suggested that Miss Cabell have the honor. An article on the work of the Ellets, by Herbert Gambrell, Associate Professor of History, Southern Methodist University, appeared in the October 1937, Reader's Digest and a lengthy writeup of the acheivements of the Ellets appeared in the October 17 Kansas City Star.

Charles Ellet, Jr., was also one of the first designers and builders of suspension bridges. His was a novel case as he was an army officer in charge of a fleet in a naval engagement.

The book has photographs of all of the members. Richard Ellet looked all of 16, Charles Rivers Ellet little more, and the rest seemed to be trying to hide their youth with flowing beards. Sanford G. Scarritt was a member of the brigade.

Following the death of Laura Scarritt, John married Mary J. Skillman of St. Louis. They went to California in 1851, and the three boys of Scarritt blood were raised and loved by their stepmother just as she afterward cared for her own large family of boys. They lived at Belmont, California, for some time. The boys grew up there and then he moved to Atchison, Kansas, probably to be near his brother, Gen. Alfred W. Ellet, and some years later to Kansas City, where his son, Arthur G., lived. He died in Kansas City, aged 84.

S.4.1.3.4.1. John Alfred Ellet 1838-1892 and Lizzie K. Church

John A. Ellet went to California with his father in 1851 and in 1858 entered the College of the Poe at Santa Clara. Later he taught in the Santa Clara Public School until 1862, when he was commissioned a Lieutenant-Colonel of the Mississippi River Ram Fleet. He was commander of the Lancaster in the battle of Vicksburg and served with great distinction. He assisted Admiral Farragut until the surrender of Vicksburg. He was mustered out of the service Jan. 1, 1865. He was in the merchandise business in Vicksburg and later in Yazoo City, Mississippi, until March, 1875. About that time he married Lizzie Knight Church of Woodstock, Illinois. She was the daughter of Colonel Laurence S. Church, a member of the constitutional Convention of Illinois and chairman of the Judiciary Committee. At the time of his death he was a candidate for congress.

Soon after their marriage John A. Ellet and his bride, Lizzie Church, moved to Boulder, Colorado, where he was engaged in mining, real estate and farming.

In 1880 John was elected mayor of Boulder and in 1890 was a delegate from Colorado to the national convention in Chicago where Mr. Garfield and Mr. Arthur were nominated. He died about 1892.

S.4.1.3.4.1.1. Laura Ellet 1877- and Samuel Lelean

Born in Boulder, Mrs. Lelean finished high school and attended the University. Before graduating she went to Minneapolis to study voice, later moving to Los Angeles. She met her husband on Catalina Island (there also, about 1908, she met he only two Scarritts she ever knew, William C. and Mrs. Scarritt, and Rev. Charles W. Scarritt, who were vacationing there), and they lived for some time in Redlands before moving to Berkley. Samuel C. Lelean was born in Lands End, England, coming to Canada when he was seven. He received his education in Peterboro and Toronto. When he was about 21 he moved to California and has been in the dry goods business ever since. His store is at 5601 Grove Street, Oakland. The family lives at 2421 Oregon Street, Berkeley.

S.4.1.3.4.2. Charles Ellet

We have no record of Charles, except the report that he died in California where he and his brothers had grown up. Several of the family of fourteen children died before they moved to California.

S.4.1.3.4.3. Richard Ellet and Bettie Cullen

Richard, who was always known as Dick, served in the Civil War and afterwards was in business in the South with his brother John. He married in 1867, Bettie Cullen of Yazoo City, Mississippi. He later moved to Boulder, Colorado. Richard was smothered in an upper berth, in a railway accident when he was on his way to the Centennial Exposition. His son Alfred was born in Boulder.

S.4.1.3.4a.11. Arthur G. Ellet 1864- and Florence Overall

A widely known Kansas City merchant and real estate owner, who has been active in Kansas City business circles for more than 50 years (1938) Arthur G. Ellet was a nephew of the commander of the Ram fleet and half brother of Col. John A. and Lieut. Richard Ellet.

In his early career he was the proprietor of the Ellet Shoe Company, Ninth and Main Street, and later was the president of the Ellet-Kendall Wholesale Shoe Company. Among his cherished possessions are the sword his uncle wore in the Memphis engagement and a letter written by him (Alfred) a few weeks after the battle, giving a vivid description of the action at Memphis and subsequent movements of the Ram fleet, which playd a part in the siege of Vicksburg.

At his home, 4055 Warwick Boulevard, Arthur G. Ellet has preserved many heirlooms and paintings of the ancestral line of the family and has kept alive the traditions of the five "Fighting Ellets" in the names of his children, all of whom were born in Kansas City. In June 1938 he and his two daughters flew to New York for dedication of Destroyer Ellet. (See page 40).

S.4.1.3.7. Nathan Scarritt, D. D. 1821-1890 and Matilda Chick 1831-1874

Nathan Scarritt was born April 14 on his father's farm in Godfrey township, Illinois, now the location of Monticello Seminary for young women. Having worked on the farm until he was 16, young Scarritt then entered McKendree College at Lebanon, Illinois He contracted to clear the timber from the campus in order to pay his expenses for the first year and his work was so satisfactory that although he couldn't pay his board for the last two years the faculty granted him credit and he was graduated in 1842.

Young Nathan took a teaching position in Waterloo, Illinois, and paid back the sum he owed, although it took almost two years' salary. At the end of two years with his debts paid, and $50 given to his father, he had $10 left. With this to start his fortune, he went to Fayette, Howard County, Missouri, in 1845, loaned the $10, which was never returned, so he started even. At Fayette he cooperated with his brother-in-law, Dr. W. T. Lucky, in establishing Howard High School, which subsequently developed into Central College.

Nathan Scarritt was ordained a minister of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, in 1846 and continued this relationship until the end of his days. He was a teacher as well as a preacher. He was head of the classical department of the Shawnee Indian Mission and Manual Training School which was located in Kansas, just southwest of the present limits of Kansas City, Missouri. He was one of the organizers and became first principal of the Westport High School, which city of Westport was incorporated before Kansas City, but subsequently was included in the city limits of the latter. He was first president of Central College, being one of the original incorporators of that institution, and served as curator from the beginning until his death. He was one of the principal founders of the Scarritt Bible and Training School located at Kansas City, but later moved to Nashville, Tennessee, where it it now successfully conducted as Scarritt College for Christian Missionaries. He accumulated and improved considerable real estate property in Kansas City, Missouri, and has been memorialized by that community by naming a street and one of its prominent public schools for him.

When he married Martha Matilda Chick, daughter of Col. W. M. Chick, in 1850, he took a wedding trip that included a visit to the old homestead in New Hampshire. He wrote in his diary, "Visited Uncle Josiah, a Methodist minister, of the '76 school; Uncle Jotham, Aunt Jane Foster (from Moore branch), at Mt. Vernon, and Aunt Gibson (daughter-in-law of Lucy Scarritt Moore), 12 miles from there." In 1875 he married Ruth Barker Scarritt, widow of his brother Isaac.

S.4.1.3.7.8. Charles Wesley Scarritt 1869-1938 and Clara M. Spencer 1870-1925

Clara M. Scarritt was the daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Joab Spencer, and was a leader in church and club circles in Kansas City.

Minister, business man, scholar and philanthropist, Charles W. Scarritt was born three miles east of Kansas City on his father's homestead, which overlooked the bluffs of the Missouri River.

This home was burned down when he was three years old and the family moved into their new home near the same location. What was then an isolated and almost inaccessible farm is now the site of one of the finer residential districts of the city.

Reared in Kansas City, he attended Vandebilt University in Nashville, Tennessee, graduating in 1892. There he was a member of Phi Delta Theta and Phi Beta Kappa fraternities; was a member of Vanderbilt's first varsity football team and was captain of the Vanderbilt bicycle team.

He took a divinity course at Drew University Theological Seminary, Madison, New Jersey, studied a year at Leipzig University in Germany and a year at the University of Chicago. He entered the active ministry in 1894. His last charge was at Melrose Church, Kansas City, Missouri—the church his father had founded. A failure of health after several years in the ministry was followed by a period of recuperation in Portland, Oregon. In 1906 he was invited to join his brothers in the management of the Scarritt Estate Company. From the summer of 1906 until October, 1928, Charles was engaged in assisting in the managing and developing of the Scarritt Estate properties, as secretary of the Scarrit Esate Company. The Scarritt building and arcade were completed at a cost of approximately a million dollars, and later buildings aggregating some $400,000 were erected. For many years he was active in the affairs of the Kansas City Real Estate Board, the Park Board, and served as president of the Kansas City Association of Building Owners and Managers.

He was instrumental in helping in the founding of Suchow University in China and was a member of the Board of Trustees of Scarritt College for Christian Workers in Nashville, Tennessee. After his retirement from the ministry, he continued to be active in church affairs, serving for many years at treasurere of his conference of the M. E. Church South and was constantly engaged in private philanthropies.

But the ministry and business do not give the complete story of Mr. Scarritt's life. After being a student in four American and foreign universities and becoming a member of Phi Beta Kappa, he took delight in such practical things as building a log cabin in a mountain fastness or in inventing a spring device to open a barn door.

He often confided that he would have preferred the work of an architect to the career he followed, and this bent of his mind toward planning things resulted in more than a hobby. He invented a card index filing system—revolutionary when it was introduced a generation ago—which brought considerable patent royalties. His action in turning over the entire proceeds of this invention to the movement to found Suchow university in China was typical of his personal interest in social and charitable movemens.

His philanthropy was of the type which led him to take forty-five children from the Spofford Receiving Home for Children to his summer cabin, Highland Lodge, in Green Mountain Falls, for 2-month vacations in the summer of 1926 and 1927. A few years later illness forced Mr. Scarritt to year-round retirement there himself.

Mr. Scarritt's interest in youth was displayed in his efforts to build up Boy Scout troop 45, of which he was the first scoutmaster. The troop headquarters were at the Melrose Methodist church.

After his health failed he spent the last ten years of his life in Colorado.

S.4.1.3.9. Mary Jane Scarritt 1823-1898 and Dr. W. T. Lucky 1821-1876

One of Nathan's daughters, Mary Jane, married the Rev. W. T. Lucky, Methodist minister, and moved with him to California in 1862. It is related in the Madison County history that Dr. Lucky was very absent-minded. At one time he was chaplain of the state penitentiary, and one Sunday, when he opened the services with all the prisoners, he prefaced his discourse with the remarks: 'My friends, I am glad to see so many of you present here today,' oblivious of the fact that the poor fellows were there because they couldn't help themselves. Another story is that one day the chaplain of the legislature, in session in Sacramento, was absent one day, and Rev. Lucky was sent to offer the invocation. Forgetting his environment, he offered the usual petition he used at the penal institution, and prayed fervently for 'those who had been sent up there from different sections of the state, in punishment for their crimes.' That prayer caused a sensation.

Born in Illinois, Mary Jane married Dr. W. T. Lucky in Illinois in 1844. Dr. William Thomas Lucky was born in Kentucky and probably met his future wife while attending McKendree College in Illinois. The Luckys moved to Fayette, Missouri, the year they were married, and all of their children were born there. Dr. Lucky established a college at Fayette and had seven students the first day, but only five at the end of the first week. The school prospered, nevertheless, and later was divided into a boys' school conducted by Nathan Scarritt, his brother-in-law, and a girls' school headed by Dr. Lucky.

The Civil War ruined the school and the Dr. Lucky family left for California in 1862, having been preceded by Dr. Lucky by a year. The migrants included Mary Scarritt Lucky, her two sons, William Scarritt Lucky and Arthur Mason Lucky, her two daughters, Mary Cornelia and Laura Ellet, and Dr. Lucky's mother and father.

The trip across the plains was made in what in those days was considerable luxury. A special wagon with padded seats that could be folded back into a bed, was built for the family. This wagon was part of a train conducted by an experienced guide and made the trip from Missouri to California in four months, from April to August. The Lucky family had a special private tent and all meals were prepared and brought to them. The trip, according to Mary Lucky Hughes, was not considered a hard one, and was pleasant with one exception.

During a stormy period, Dr. Lucky's mother became ill and her condition became serious, a special Indian messenger was sent west to notify Dr. Lucky of his mother's condition. In the meantime, Dr. Lucky, who had been at Vacaville, California, for a year, had a premonition of impending trouble and started east to meet his family. The Indian messenger encountered the doctor who was traveling by stage and by forced driving Dr. Lucky reached his mother about an hour before she died.

After the family reached Vacaville in August, Dr. Lucky resumed his work as head of the Pacific Methodist College, a position he held for nine years. The family then moved to San Francisco where he became head of th State Normal School. He was instrumental in having the school moved to San Jose, where it is now located. Later Dr. Lucky resigned his position and the family moved to Los Angeles, where he became principal of public schools.

In 1876, Laura having in the meantime married, Dr. Lucky, his wife and children, Arthur and Mary, went to the Centennial Exposition at Philadelphia, where they spent three months making the trip both ways by train. Dr. Lucky contracted an illness shortly after his return to California and died in 1876

4. William Scarritt Lucky 1856-1883 married Carrie Lee 1856-1883
5. Arthur Mason Lucky 1858-1881

S.4.1.3.9.1. Laura Ellet Lucky 1847-1918 and Capt. William L. Duncan 1827-1907

Laura, who was probably named for her aunt Laura Scarritt Ellet, taught at a private girls' school in San Mateo, California, before her marriage which took place before the family went to Philadelphia in 1876. She married W. L. Duncan, a widower, who moved to California about 1847. He was a captain of California Pioneers and was for 35 years a stock broker in San Francisco. He once refused $50,000 for his seat on the exchange. He died on the floor of the exchange in 1907. They have no children. Captain Duncan's brother, J. C. Duncan, was the founder of the California Safe Deposit end Trust Co. in San Francisco and father of Isadore Duncan, the dancer.

S.4.1.3.9.2. Mary Cornelia Lucky 1849- and Wesley Evans Hughes 1840-1887

Born in Fayette, Howard County, Missouri, Mary journeyed to California with the family in 1862 and it was she who furnished the details regarding the family. She attended the State Normal School in San Jose, and it was while in Philadelphia that she met her husband-to-be again. She had known him before in Vacaville.

Mary married W. E. Hughes in San Francisco in 1879 and they lived for a time in San Jose where he practiced law. On the advice of physicians he took up ranching and planted one of the first large orchards near Fresno, California. There A. L. Hughes was born in 1880.

W. E. Hughes was postmaster of Fresno for several years and when he died the citizens got up a petition to have Mrs. Hughes appointed postmistress. She served in that position for four years.

After finishing her work as postmistress, Mrs. Hughes moved to San Francisco and lived with Capt. and Mrs. Duncan. In 1904 she took her son to the Philippines where she taught school for four years. They returned to San Francisco in 1908. Since that time she has lived in the vicinity of Oakland and now lives at 1240 Broadway, Alameda, California. She is a gentlewoman if there ever was one, pleasant, intelligent and kindly. When interviewd by Robert T. Reinhardt in 1938 especially for this history, she was alert, and was described as "She hears well, talks well, reads well (with the aid of weak glasses)."

Scarritts in Illinois

S.4.1.3.10. Rev. Dr. Jotham A. Scarritt 1827-1916 and Rebecca Meldum -1905

Jotham lived on a farm, adjoining that of Winthrop Gilman Scarritt, in Godfrey township, Illinois. To him we are indebted for many facts related here which are taken from his "Recollections" in the history of Madison County.

"James Meldrum, his father-in-law, settled on a tract on the Brighton Road, now owned by the Rev. J. W. Caldwell, who married his youngest daughter. Another daughter became the wife of Dr. Jotham Scarritt, like Rev. Caldwell, a Methodist minister," from History Madison County.

"For some time, in the early days, the three M. E. churches of Alton, Middletown and Upper Alton were served by one minister. The Middletown church finally became extinct or was merged with the other two. The pastors, dating from 1833, included many able men who have been prominent in the church throughout southern Illinois. One of the most notable of these is the Rev. Dr. J. A. Scarritt, of Alton, now 84 years old and retired from active service, but still preaching on occasion, with his old time power and eloquence. His long life has been spent in the service of the church. He has filled many pastorates and held the office of presiding elder." Page 341.

"Godfrey has five churches. As early as 1828 a Methodist class was established in the home of Nathan Scarritt. The first Bethany church was built by the exertions of the widow of Nathan Scarritt and her son, Dr. Jotham Scarritt. In 1907 a fine new church was built for the congregation at Godfrey station to which the Rev. Dr. Scarritt contributed $3,500. Page 516-7.

Dr. Scarritt was a trustee of McKendree for 50 years.

3. Ada Virginia Parsons 1859-1897 married George Parsons

S.4.1.3.10.3. Ada Virginia Scarritt 1859-1897 and George Parsons 1854-1927.

George Parsons was in the real estate business. Rev. Jotham Scarritt, Mrs. Parson's father, says in a letter to Mrs. Davidson, in 1888 . . . . "They are comfortably off, seem to be happy, and better than all, are both trying to be good. They are both thoroughly educated and they are a great comfort to us, though their house is eight hours distant from us." (He lived in Jerseyville, Illinois). In a letter to Mrs. Nellie Gunn in 1887, Rev. Scarritt says: "Ada's health was good until she gave birth to a child, and lost it and her good health at the same time—she is not—we hope, a confirmed invalid, but time only can tell."

George was on the building committee of the M. E. Church in Cairo and served as choir master for thirty-five years. Mrs. Ada S. Parsons played the organ for a number of years. Mr. Parsons served as Mayor of Cairo for several four-year terms and was a director in the Alexander County Bank.

Both Mrs. Parsons and her mother were members of the Women's Club of Cairo until their respective deaths.

Ada was born in Brighton, Illinois, and married George Parsons in Cairo, in 1885.

S.4.1.4. Rev. Josiah Atkins Scarritt 1790- and Cynthia Dow-Phebe Burley

Born in Lyman, New Hampshire, Josiah began to think seriously about religion when little more than a youngster, as the diary in the possession of his grandson, Charles Elwood Scarritt of Oak Park, Illinois, testifies. He finally decided that he was called to be a preacher and made his start when he had an opportunity to fill an appointment which his brother Isaac, a local preacher, was unable to keep. He was licensed as a preacher in 1914, and rode the circuit for many years.

He is included in the list of preachers of the Methodist Episcopal Church of Barre, 1830; he was presiding elder, Montpelier District in 1833. He was also presiding elder at Bloomfield and presiding elder and one of the first preachers at Holland.

His son, Charles, who lived in Columbus, Ohio, on a trip East in 1882, obtained possession of Josiah's saddlebags, which are now in the possession of his granddaughters, the Misses Sue and Flora Scarritt, Orange, California.

The diary mentioned contains the titles of many of his sermons and gives many of his thoughts as entered in the daily record.

Josiah married Cynthia Dow (1804-1843) on December 29, 1825, at her home in Bath, N. H.. Rev. Mr. Savage read the service. He married Phebe Burley at Sandwich, New Hampshire, on April 17, 1845. Rev. Mr. Moody officiated.

S.4.1.4.1. Josiah Atkins Scarritt 1828-1894 and Emily Frances Wing 1836-1903

Josiah Atkins Scarritt was born in Marlow, New Hampshire; his wife at Baltimore, Ohio. They were married on Tuesday, July 9, in Columbus, Ohio, by the Rev. E. D.

Morris at the home of W. J. Fell. The witnesses were Charles Scarritt and Grace Gilbert, B. Huntington and Anna Ellis. "A big crowd, all hungry, and Kate Meyers got the ring," was brother Charles account of the affair.

Josiah moved to Columbus, as had his brother Charles, from Vermont. Here Josiah was superintendent of music in the public schools. He moved to California in 1887 and occupied the same position in both Orange and Santa Ana, California. His principal occupation, however, was that of citrus grower, and he helped to organize one of the first cooperative orange growers' associations, of which he was president until his failing health forced him to give up active participation. He was a man of high and sterling qualities, always interested in everything that was best and most constructive in his home, church and the community at large.

Frances Trew Scarritt married Mr. Hippard of Columbus, Ohio, in 1932.

S.4.1.4.2. Erasmus Scarritt 1830-

Erasmus was born in Barre, Washington County, Vermont, October 4. At the time of his brother Charles' trip to the East in 1882, he met Erasmus, then a conductor on an Eastern railroad. The brothers were not on speaking terms as Charles felt that Erasmus had not done his part in supporting and educating their two sisters when all were young and unmarried. His son George spent the summer of 1881 with Charles at Columbus.

Erasmus was married twice. Once to Mrs. E. A. Shaw whom he married in New York City in July, 1858. He had two children.

1. Ernest Scarritt (George)
2. Estella Scarritt

S.4.1.4.3. Helen Scarritt married Ezra T. Shedd of Maine. They lived in Chicago. She was active in public affairs and a prominent member of several women's organizations, including "The Fortnightly", a very literary club, in which membership was considered a favor. She died in the early 1890's. Mr. Shedd married a Miss Mae Clemons and they lived in Wheaton, Illinois, where they operated a farm.

S.4.1.4.4. Cynthia Dow Scarritt 1827-1913 and Dr. Robert P. Little 1818-1856

Mrs. Little, who died at the home of her son in Columbus, Ohio, was born in Lyman, New Hampshire. She married Dr. Little, a native of Pennsylvania, and soon afterward moved to Columbus where two of her brothers then lived. Mrs. Little was a member of the old First Presbyterian Church until she, with a group of others, left it and founded the Broad Street Presbyterian Church, thus becoming one of its charter members. She always took a great deal of interest in missionary work, supervising the sending of many boxes to missions and schools. For many years she was on the board of administration of the Columbus Art School. Her only child was born in Mercersburg, Pennsylvania, in 1850. She and her husband came to Columbus in 1852. She went to New Jersey in 1862 for a short time, then returned to Columbus where she remained the rest of her life, living with her son the last few years.

S.4.1.4.4.1. William P. Little 1850-1937 and Fanny Platt Bates

William Parker Little, who figured prominently in the city's banking activities many years ago, died at his home, 1617 Hawthorn Park, Columbus, Ohio, Sunday night, June 13, 1937, of a heart attack suffered Saturday night. Apparently in good health he had spent most of Saturday working in the garden at his home.

Mr. Little's banking career began when he became a messenger for the old Barlett & Smith Bank, after which he was named bookkeeper for the banking firm of Hayden, Hutcheson & Co., which later became the Hayden-Clinton National Bank.

When the firm became the Hayden-Clinton National Bank in 1892, Mr. Little was made cashier and named a director. He held these positions until 1923 when it was consolidated with the Huntington National Bank, of which he then became vice president. Two years later he retired from active business.

Born June 5, 1850, in Mercersburg, Penna., Mr. Little was the son of Dr. Robert and Cynthia Dow Scarritt Little, and a great grandson of Robert Parker, officer in the American Revolution, and personal friend of George Washington and Lafayette. He came to Columbus in 1852, went to the public schools there and attended Heidelberg College at Tiffin, Ohio.

Mr. Little held memberships in the Sons of the American Revolution, the Columbus Athletic Club, and the old Ohio and Columbus Gun Clubs. His wife is the daughter of Judge James L. Bates, formerly a prominent Columbus jurist, and granddaughter of the late Hon. Alfred Kelley.

His home is at 139 North Tenth Street, Santa Paula, California.

Scarritts in Illinois

S.4.1.4.5. Charles Scarritt 1833-1882 and Ena B. Phillips

Charles Scarritt was farmed out at the age of fourteen and worked for several years in northern New York state. He contributed to the support and education of his two sisters and also secured an education for himself. He moved to Columbus, Ohio, early life and there married Ena B. (Lavina Bell) Phillips. For many years he was head bookkeeper, credit man, and general manager for Isaac Eberly & Co., wholesale grocers. Later he organized the firm of Scarritt and Failing, wholesale grocers, and had a store on High Street in Columbus. A prominent man in Columbus business life, he was a self-made man and a "square shooter" according to those who knew him.

Charles was accidentally killed when getting ready to go on a hunting trip. His horse suddenly became frightened and ran away, throwing Charles to the street. He sustained a skull fracture which within a short time proved fatal.

After his death his widow, with her two sons, Ralph and Charles Elwood, moved to Chicago where she shared the home of her sister, Mrs. Graham, at 772 (now 2017) West Monroe Street. (Mrs. Graham's husband, James A., was one of the Graham Bros., soap-makers, whose factory was destroyed by the Chicago fire. This factory was later rebuilt and the business was carried on until very recently).

2. Charles Elwood Scarritt 1875- married Lulu A. Nabroth 1875-

S.4.1.4.5.1. Ralph Scarritt 1873- and Mary A. Gilbert 1875-

Ralph Scarritt moved to River Forest, Illinois, in January, 1898, into a new home he had built. During the years since that time, he has been exceedingly active in all community enterprises. At the present he is agent for the Waller estate, through the Northern Trust Company, having been associated with the late Mr. Waller for almost a third of a century.

Mr. Scarritt served as village clerk from 1904-07, when the village was "in the mud" so far as sidewalks and pavements were concerned. It was during these years that a strong progressive policy was inaugurated by the Village Board for Public Improvements and Mr. Scarritt had a prominent part in that program. His efforts were extremely helpful in establishing the Washington School at Keystone Avenue and Washington Boulevard, and later he was active in acquiring land for, and the building of Roosevelt School and Memorial Hall.

He served two years as a member of the Board of Education and took part in the movement that resulted in making River Forest a separate township, which at that time was deemed a benefit to the school system.

On coming to River Forest, Mr. and Mrs. Scarritt identified themselves with the Presbyterian Church and through all the years have been actively associated with its progress. Mr. Scarritt was a member of the board of trustees, serving a total of 25 years, and treasurer of the current expense fund of the church for four years. He served three terms as village treasurer and three years as special assessment commissioner.

He was always active in connection with outdoor sports and in 1902 organized the River Forest semi-pro baseball team, which met some of the best semi-pro teams and in its day was regarded as one of the best in Cook County. Several nationally known players got their start on this team.

In 1913, Mr. Scarritt took active part in the organization of the River Forest State Bank, acting as secretary of the organization meeting.

Ralph, as he is familiarly known to his associates, was Master of the River Forest Lodge No. 1049, A. F. & A. M. in 1933. Possessing tireless energy, he is the type of man necessary to any community that wishes to advance.

Mrs. Scarritt has long been active in Red Cross work. During the World War she was vice chaiman of Oak Park and River Forest groups, giving her full time until Armistice was signed. Since then she has continued as chairman and has always been in charge of the annual membership campaigns.

Twice president of the Needlework Guild, and three times president of the River Forests Women's Club (of which she is a charter and life member and honorary president), she has always been prominent in civic and community projects in River Forest. She is serving on the Chicago Council of Presbyterian Mission Work and Board of Auxiliary of Association of Settlement Workers in Chicago. They live at 550 Lathrop Avenue, River Forest, Illinois.

S.4.2. James Scarritt 1761- and Silvia Plumb

James was born at North Branford, New Haven County, Connecticut. While residing in Farmington or Wolcott, he enlisted about June 1, 1777, and served at various times until 1782, about two years in all, as a private under Captain Peter Curtis, and others. He served one tour for his father. In 1780 he served as a teamster under commissary Morgan and wagonmaster General Thompson.

After the revolution he resided at Farmington, Connecticut, between thirty and forty years. He then moved to Smyrna, Chenango County, New York, where he resided when he was pensioned as a result of his application of October 9, 1832. He married Mrs. Elizabeth Collins, widow of Sheffield Collins, January 18, 1834. She was allowed a pension on her application dated March 1, 1852, when she was 62 and lived in Smyrna.

James died in Smyrna and in November, 1853, Eliza Collins Scarritt moved to Sumpter, Wayne County, Michigan, to live with her daughter (by her first husband), Mrs. Paul S. Westgate. In 1874 she resided in Hardin County, Iowa, Postoffice, Iowa Falls.

James Scarritt, son, testified in 1853 that Eliza was his father's second wife. He lived in Smyrna. The same year Henry testified that he was the grandson of James the soldier.

From "Historical Encyclopedia of Illinois," ed. by Newton Bateman and Paul Selby. Chic., Munsell pub. co., 1901 (c1894-1900) p. 467:

"SCARRITT, Nathan, pioneer, was born in Connecticut, came to Edwardsville, Illinois, in 1820, and, in 1821, located in Scarritt's Prairie Madison County. His sons afterward became influential in business and Methodist church circles. Died, December 12, 1847."

From "History of Madison County, Illinois". Edwardsville, Ill., W. R. Brink & Co., 1882. pp. 506, 507, 512, 513:

"THE EARLIEST SETTLEMENTS

"In the township (Godfrey) were made in the year 1826. Nathan Scarritt seems to have broken the first ground for cultivation, but the first cabin was built and occupied by Joseph Reynolds. Nathan Scarritt was a native of New Hampshire; he was a man of marked piety, who left a religious impress on the community which existed for many years after his death. With his wife and four children he emigrated from the town of Lyman, on the Connecticut river, New Hampshire, and reached Edwardsville in the month of November, 1820. Ten weeks and four days were occupied in making this journey, though the weather was favorable, and they were able to travel every week day except one. On the Sabbath they always rested. On his arrival at Edwardsville he had difficulty in getting a house for his family, and finally moved into a log house, with a stick chimney and hearth, and puncheon floor. With one or two exceptions all the buildings in Edwardsville at that time were log. The members of the family had no chairs to sit on, but their worst privation was the want of pure water; but Mr. Scarritt discovered that the insufficient depth of the wells and their lack of walls was the cause, and this matter was remedied. During the winter of 1820-21, he built at Edwardsville a house of clap-boards, which Mrs. Scarritt helped to raise, 'carrying my corner', as she was accustomed to remark, "while the men carried up theirs,' into which the family moved, in March, 1821. After a residence in Edwardsville of five years, Mr. Scarritt made his home in Godfrey township. He settled on the prairie, and the farm which he made, now the property of Levi Springer, adjoined the present village of Godfrey. From the circumstance of his settling here the prairie was called Scarritt's prairie. His farm was the first improvement on the prairie. He died in the year 1848; his widow was living till recent years; he was a member of the Methodist church, and the first religious services in the township were held in his house. The first school was taught in his barn, which stood a short distance north of his residence, where Mr. Springer now has a garden. His daughter was the teacher of this school, and the pupils, gathered from the families who had moved to this part of the county, were about sixteen in number. The first Sunday school in the township was also taught in this barn. Mr. Scarritt made brick and built the first brick house in the township. This was a large and substantial structure for that day, and still remains in good condition. Mr. Scarritt took no part in public affairs; he had several sons who became useful citizens." p. 506.

HISTORICAL INFORMATION

Founding of Scarritt Bible and Training School

It was in the year 1888 that a young woman, Miss Belle H. Bennett, became so deeply impressed that the young women going out to do missionary work for the Church should have an opportunity for thorough training that she consecrated herself to the task of building a missionary training school. She presented her thought to the Woman's Board of Foreign Missions of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, at its annual meeting in Little Rock, Arkansas, in 1889. The Board appointed her as its official agent to investigate the matter of a training school for missionaries and empowered her to present the claims of such a school throughout the Church, to enlist the sympathy and aid of the workers, and to collect funds for the school.

Relying upon the promise, "Commit thy works unto the Lord, and thy thoughts shall be established," Miss Bennett consented to undertake the task assigned her. In prosecuting the work she had the co-operation of numerous frinds, notable among whom were Mrs. M. D. Wightman, who was appointed as an associated agent, and Rev. Sam P. Jones, who opened the way for the presentation of the cause in connection with his evangelistic services. During the campaign for funds, Dr. Nathan Scarritt, of Kansas City, offered to give a site for the school and $25,000, provided a like amount should be raised by the women of the Church. With this timely assistance, the required amount was speedily secured and the training school for missionaries made possible.

At the very height of success opposition arose, opposition so strong that it seemed for a time the enterprise would be wrecked. Some of the men in official position vigorously opposed it and many women feared lest its phenomenal success would be the undoing of the work which was already being carried on in the mission field. The gift of Dr. Scarrittt had already been accepted and the money raised to meet its requirements; but now the question arose as to the right to establish such a school under the constitution of the Woman's Board of Foreign Missions. The Board met in St. Louis in May, 1890, during the session of the General Conference, with the result that the constitution was so amended as to give the Board the authority to establish such a school. Steps were taken at once to build, and in appreciation of Dr. Scarritt's generosity the institution was named Scarritt Bible and Training School. Miss Maria Layng Gibson was selected as Principal, and the Training School opened its doors in 1892.

The Record of a Quarter Century

Beginning with a small faculty and only a few students the Training School made steady progress until 1902 when it was considerably strengthened by the inauguration of the Deaconess Movement under the auspices of the Woman's Board of Home Missions, and the decision of that Board to send its deaconess candidates to Scarritt to be trained. By this action the Woman's Board of Foreign Missions and the Woman's Board of Home Missions representing the entire Woman's Missionary work of the

M. E. Church, South, became united in the support of the Training School, and it became the training center for the young women preparing for mission work at home and abroad.

Establishment of Scarritt College for Christian Workers

In 1919 steps were taken looking to the removal of the Training School to some better location and its reorganization for larger service. Before this object was accomplished, Dr. Cook resigned as President to accept the Associate Secretaryship of the Board of Education, M. E. Church, South; Miss Gibson resigned as Principal and was made Principal Emeritus, and Rev. J. L. Cuninggim, B. D., D. D., was elected President of the Training School. The movement to relocate and reorganize the school was then made a part of a larger effort to develop a program of missionary education for the entire Church.

Growth of the Student Body

The last year that Scarritt Bible and Training School was conducted in Kansas City, Missouri, there were enrolled 69 students. The student enrollment in Scarritt College for Christian Workers during its first year (1924-25) was as follows: Graduate students, 30; Senior College students, 32; Junior College and Special students, 63; students from affiliated institutions, 41; a total of 166. During the past year the enrollment has been: Graduate students, 74; Senior College students, 72; Junior College and Special students, 28; students from affiliated institutions, 31; total enrollment, 205.

This brief statement gives an interesting insight into the recent history of the College. The change of location and reorganization of the school resulted in a marked increase in the size of the student body, and during the seven years Scarritt College has shown a steady growth. More significant, however, than the growth in the number of students has been the notable change in their academic standing as is indicated in the increased number of Senior College and Graduate students. The enrollment during the past year has been the largest in the history of the college.

Another significant fact that does not appear in the statement given above is the representative character of the student body. During the seven years since Scarritt College has been organized students have been admitted from twenty-four states and from a number of foreign countries, including: Brazil, Canada, China, Cuba, Japan, Korea, Mexico, Persia, and South Africa.
